Alliant Private Client continues national growth with addition of Jennifer Dantona

Veteran personal lines executive Jennifer Dantona joins to strengthen service for high-net-worth and entertainment clients.

March 7, 2026

Alliant Private Client has enhanced its national advisory capabilities with the addition of senior personal lines leader Jennifer Dantona.

Bringing more than 20 years of experience serving high-net-worth and entertainment clients, she adds deep technical expertise and a client-focused approach to managing complex personal risk strategies.

In her new role, Dantona will focus on expanding the firm's West Coast presence while working closely with ultra-high-net-worth individuals and families to design tailored coverage solutions that address increasingly sophisticated exposures.

Her appointment reflects Alliant Private Client's continued investment in specialized leadership to support growth and deliver customized, high-touch advisory services nationwide.

The talent, collaboration, and vision here are truly inspiring, and I'm eager to contribute to the next chapter of success alongside such talented colleagues."
